This is the first big sale the Universal Grocery Company has ever held in your city. We were able to buy this choice lot of merchandise far below today's wholesale price, for the reason that our stocks were clean and the other fellow wanted money.

We being the largest retailers of staple and fancy groceries in this part of the country, they came to us with prices less than the same quality of goods could be packed today.

Feeling that we were capable of disposing of this large stock in the shortest possible time, therefore, at the prices we are quoting these goods, we can not afford to sell them in less quantities than quarter dozen lots, and as we are not in the wholesale grocery business, we will reserve the right to limit quantities and will not under any circumstances, sell these goods to dealers.

Now, as has always been our custom, we are turning this merchandise over to our customers at a price that can not be duplicated elsewhere for the same quality of goods.

Remember, these dried and canned fruits are not old deteriorated stocks, but the choicest of 1920 packed California fruits. There are fully two cars of these choice fruits, but at the price we are offering them, they will not last long. We advise buying by the dozen or case, as we feel that you will not have an opportunity of this kind during the entire year. Libby, McNeil & Libby are the largest packers of high grade fruits and vegetables in the United States. Each and every article in this sale carries our broad guarantee of "Your Money Cheer-fully Refunded," if for any reason you are not satisfied.

MILK BOTTLE SHORTAGE

Continually grows worse despite the fact that we have been constantly receiving new bottles, just as fast as the manufacturers can supply us. Our bottle shortage increases from day to day, and we find ourselves unable to send out our delivery wagons for this reason. Our customers and the public, together with ourselves, have been greatly annoyed and inconvenienced by this situation.

To better this condition and in justice to ourselves, we have today started making a five cent bottle charge to our grocery trade which deposit or payment, they will demand of each customer purchasing milk. In exchange the grocer will issue a check to each purchaser which together with the bottle when returned, will be redeemed by them or at our office or by any of our wagon drivers. This will inconvenience no one, simply exchange bottles with your grocer for each purchase.

We Don't Wish to Sell Our Bottles, All We Ask is That They are Returned

A FEW LESSONS FROM FRANKLIN.

This is Thirties week. On Monday, Benjamin Franklin's birthday was celebrated. It is 215 years since he came in to cheer this earth and to leave it much better than he found it on his arrival. We are paying each year a little more attention to Franklin. In his day he was a modern of moderns and many thought him too advanced by far. Yet had he lived now he would have been unpopular with socialists and he would have been ineligible to the nonpartisan league. He proposed that men should win their way to leadership and wealth in industry and commerce. By diligent, prolonged and conscientious attention to their tasks, and by careful and thrifty saving. He says nothing in his Poor Richard almanac about higher wages, or cutting hours. His idea was to labor diligently as many hours as possible. "Dost thou love life?" he asks, "then do not squander time, for that is the stuff from which it is made."

Then, too, Franklin was for individual effort. He wanted the individual to stand out and to carve something for himself, and he held that if the individual did not do it for himself—to strengthen and nourish the body and mind and build up and enlarge himself—there was no power that could, and God would not. He spoke of putting something by for a rainy day. He did not say anything about having a shelter built by the state for that day or when the rainy day came the government should see that the individual was cared for. "Idleness and Pride," said the philosopher, who was the most practical man of his day, "tax with a heavier hand than kings and parliamentaries; if we can get rid of the former we may easily bear the latter."

"Idleness and Pride" are heavy burdens now and getting more so each day. Franklin was all together too much of a maker of practical aphorisms to be popular with the class of people who are sure they can remedy everything by passing a law and sink the individual in the paternity of the state. Still it would injure no one if the maxims and sayings of Benjamin Franklin were looked into a little closely this week when the nation is celebrating his birthday.

Wausauke, up in Marinette county, used to have its plank sidewalks all splintered up from the spiked boots of the woodsmen, and it had about as many saloons as there were spikes. Then one of the popular places for rest and recreation was the town jail. But, alas that jail has fallen from its high estate in the community. Nobody applied for admission since the eighteenth amendment went into force, and for the paucity sum of 30 hard dollars the building was sold Monday. Thus have some of our most sacred institutions been wiped off the map by the scourge of prohibition.

It will be noted with due consideration that Alderman Dulin got all the lights he wanted for the Fifth ward. He is to be congratulated. But the rest of the city does not seem to receive the same consideration. A lighting program that makes the city pay for lights in one or two wards and ignores the rest may be all right for the alderman, but it is only accepted by the people because it has no redress for 12 days.

The showing by the fair officials in the annual meeting is a matter for congratulation. The fair is getting out of debt and there may be added improvements that are needed. Each year also as the city grows the fair grounds ought to be used all the time for something—athletics, and as a recreation place. Idle property is wasted efficiency.

It would be worth while to see the report of the building of the Edgerton road made up on the efficiency blanks which are provided by the state highway commission. It is to be wondered if the application of these blanks to the road will bring the same result as the figures that have been so joyously presented to the people.

That's funny! Here's a Milwaukee legislator who does not like the Volstead law. There are others appearing before Judges Landis and Geiger of the same opinion. Instead of pressing their objections in the legislature these persons will meet in jail.

The only person who was blown up in New York was the man who stayed down town to see the excitement and met his wife on his late arrival home. That was the total casualty result of the anarchist scare.

America's army of 175,000 men, the number finally agreed upon by congress, is less than that of Germany, according to the French. But many numbers do not count at this time.

Thirty years for robbers and bandits in Oshkosh and Superior is an act of justice that may deter some of the ambitious criminals from continuing a life of rebellion against law.

"What is Green Bay's greatest need?" asks the Press-Gazette of that city. Then a business woman answers that it is a municipally owned park. The same here.

With Vic Berger out of office and Dels in prison there would not be a very warm welcome.

Bleeding Old J. B. to Death

By FREDERICK J. BASION

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—John Barleycorn, as you may possibly have noticed, is not yet entirely dead in this country, but he is dwindling in bulk day by day like a hunger striker. And the tragic part of it is that the very ones who love him best are doing the most to make his shadow small. Some little nourishment they manage to bring him once in a while, but for the most part it is with him a case of much going out and little coming in.

This is confirmed by some facts and figures we just got exclusively from the Internal Revenue Department. The Revenue Department recognizes four chief resources by which John Barleycorn is kept alive in this country. The first of these is the liquor, mostly whisky, held in bonded warehouses in this country; the second is the pure ethyl alcohol which is manufactured in large quantities ostensibly for industrial purposes; the third is the importation of liquor across the Canadian and Mexican borders and at sea ports; and the fourth is the making of various kinds of alcoholic beverages in the homes of citizens.

With this latter phase of the problem most of these entrusted with the enforcement of the law seem to think the have nothing to do.

"The law never intended us to enter a man's home," said one lawyer connected with the enforcement of prohibition. This was not an official statement, nor one made for quotation, but it seemed to represent the view taken by most of the Government lawyers. They consider that the law is designed to prevent the commercial traffic in alcoholic beverages, and its manufacture for use in that traffic. It is to the enforcement of this that they are bending their energies.

Take first the case of the whisky in bonded warehouses. In 1916 there were about 232,000,000 gallons of distilled spirits other than fruit brandies in the bonded warehouses. The end of 1920 sees but 53,000,000 gallons left in the warehouses. Furthermore, during 1920, there were 25,000,000 gallons of tax-paid withdrawals—that is, that amount was withdrawn for use in this country. During the same year 23,000,000 gallons were withdrawn for export. At that rate, another year would see all of the whisky in bonded warehouses either distributed in this country or exported. It is evident that this residue of whisky will not long be with us.

It will be with us longer than the 1920 withdrawal figures would indicate, however. The average taking about these figures is that 23,000,000 gallons were drawn for consumption in this country. That is nearly 2,000,000 gallons a month. It is about a fourth as much whisky as we were consuming before prohibition went into effect. Of course, it was all used on doctor's prescriptions. There certainly was a lot of sickness last year.

But that easy flow of whisky from the bonded warehouses has met with a check. It has been checked by the simple method of a ruling from the Internal Revenue Department that transfers of liquor from one wholesaler to another will no longer be approved. The wholesaler must now dispose of his liquor direct to the druggist, or other authorized retailer or user, and this person must be able to show a permit.

This ruling went into effect in August, 1920. In July, 1920 the withdrawals of whisky alone from bonded warehouses for use in this country were almost two million gallons. In October, 1920, when the new ruling had been in effect a few months they had dropped to less than one million gallons for the month. And there is evidence of a still further decrease for the future.

The evident fact is that in transfers of liquor from one wholesaler to another, some of it went astray. The bureau could not possibly keep track of it.

A PLEA.

This is my hope and plea, That I shall able be Always to bear My bit of care.

Not for the level way I kneel to pray, Give me the joy, And the story road.

Through the dark days and long I would be strong! Strength for the task Is all I ask.

CHAPTER I
ESTHER'S NEW IDEA

We never did any work Sunday afternoons. That was a rule observed religiously in the house, and a very welcome rule too. For aside from any religious or sacred respect for the day, it gave us the only hours during the week to relax, to think about things other than the immediate task, to take hold of ourselves once more.

Violet and James would go to the garden, and sit under the trees in the little woods across the fields from our house. Violet would carry her books along and would read aloud and study, while James lay on his back on the grass and listened. It was rather charming, and so unlike the split existences between most brothers and sisters that we knew.

"What are you reading all the Sunday as the two started away," "Elementary psychology," Violet answered. "I don't see," said Esther, "I don't see as any such fancy knowledge will do James any good. Won't make him any better, as Jim would say."

James is so interested in machinery," I said. "I wonder what books or magazines I should get him about that?" "Jim said suddenly, coming through the door in time to hear my question. "Don't talk to me about James and machinery! I let him repair the reaper when it broke this summer and you should have seen the mess he made. Cost me $25."

He fairly stormed out of the room. I turned around to Esther in surprise. She shrugged her shoulders a little—an action that somehow emphasized the layers of fat over them and over all her body.

"James wanted to make up some sort of engine, I guess," she explained. "So last winter he borrowed some little wheels from the reaper and some ball bearings. Jim tried to run it, not knowing, and it wouldn't work of course, and got stuck somehow. I don't know how. Anyway, James remembered and put back the parts he'd borrowed, but even then something was strained and it cost Jim a lot of money."

She walked, flat-footed, across the room. "I'm going to rest too, perhaps," I said, starting upstairs to my room. I looked at myself in the unfriendly glass when I was alone. I did not look as well as usual.

That is the tragedy of age, after all—not just the tragedy of middle age. Youth can put almost any strain upon its vitality, and wake up with rosy cheeks and bright eyes next morning. But we are in the middle period must be so careful. We have so little to give out that we must sometimes be physical vampires, and drain youth and vitality from our surroundings.

I sat on one of the uncomfortable chairs and began to take down my hair, shaking it out and running my fingers through it, carefully stimulating the scalp as the girl had told me. I was suggesting my routine, and the routine had done me good.

The door opened and Esther came in without knocking. "There was a letter for you," she said, holding out a small envelope. "It's from the doctor. He says you're getting on all right, but he wants you to keep up your exercise."

"If you're nothing to hide, you won't mind, and if you have anything to hide, I ought to know," was her method of excuse. She had taken off her house dress and the flimsy corsets she sometimes wore, and rolled around herself, a curious old garment. It was striped, and the wide skirt, and actually put in seam where the steves had been torn off at the elbow.

mus seals supposed to be sent out on Christmas packages only? Can't they be used on any kind of a letter? If I can, how soon before Christmas and how long after? My sister and I are having quite an argument over this. We have disagreed and talked about it since before Christmas. The seals were intended to be used in the packing of packages. For several years, however, they are stuck on anything that is mailed. Personally I think a package that is to be mailed looks neater without seals. You probably know that if the outer wrapping is sealed with Christmas stamps, the package must go first class.

It looks all right to seal a letter with a Christmas stamp. Such seals are used a week or 10 days before Christmas. It would not look well to use a seal on a business letter of any kind.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl 17 years of age. I am a typical blond and a typical girl. I am pretty. There is a certain young man in this town to whom I am engaged. We have been engaged about 18 months and he wants to be married at once, but I want to go on and complete my high school course, which will be in the spring.

method of making a kimono out of it was to slit it up the front and turn back the raw edges. The voluminous affair was wrapped around her now and held by being grasped at one side with her hand.

"Go right along, don't mind me," she said, stretching out on my bed. I turned a little and, I felt somehow that I was doing something wrong in trying to make myself look better. But here I was, with cold cream on my skin and my hair down, and there was nothing to do but go on with my treatments.

I remembered when she found me once trying on a white dress and her remark that there was "no fool like an old one." I became a little defiant. I looked at her fat figure—and then I got up and went through the stretching and bending exercises Helen taught me.

"Those will keep the figure flexible and young," I said, and unconsciously I spoke in superior tones. I glanced at her careless wrapper—and at the pretty kimono which somehow made me look so much younger. Then I went on with my treatments, explaining what I was doing and why. And Esther, flat on her back, watched with a great deal of interest.

"Yes, you do look better," she conceded, sincerely though rather grudgingly when I was through. "And that way of doing your hair does improve you."

I slipped into one of my pretty dresses, and stood up for inspection. And then Esther made an amazing remark: "I am thinking," she said slowly, "that since going to the city did you so much good, made you new all over, as I might say, that I would go back with Violet this winter. I can stand a little improvement myself, I guess. Besides, you seem to have had a real good time."

And again I felt that unseen hand, clutching my throat and stifling the life breath out of me.

The Letters of Tessie and Joe

DEAR TESSIE:
Although life is too short for me to start in and try to do out how you saved four dollars by buying a reduced hat at $14.80 instead of an un-reduced hat at $11, still at the same time I'm glad to hear you've got a good looking lid. No matter how busy I am I always find time to wonder where women get their hats, because ninety-nine of a hundred women's hats seem to be cursed that somebody put on them.

Now that's a queer thing, Tessie. According to the latest estimates, there are 9,876,875 possible shapes for a woman's hat, and yet 9,876,875 times out of the 9,876,876 a woman will look as if her hat accidentally dropped down on her out of a tree and she didn't notice it. Now with a man's hat it's different. He's only got about three styles of architecture to choose from, and even if a man's got any hair left after worrying over the cost of his wife's hats it's not long enough to break the shock with like a woman can do with hers in case a hat fits too sudden. So when a man's hat looks like an accident it's only natural and he's more to be pitied than censured.

I had a sweet dream last night. I thought I was offered a job installing twelve hundred miles of brass rail in bars down in Havana, but I was rudely awakened by a phone message cancelling the only order for Daisy Canned Soups that I've managed to get so far in this one cylinder burg. And by the way, they say dreams go by opposites, so please go extra slow about giving out any hints concerning the existence of my private stock.

I'm sending you a type of myself that a bird on the street took yesterday. My ambition is to have a good looking photograph of myself taken before I die, and this type comes the nearest so far. It hardly resembles me at all. Tell the baby I was asking for him. Love and kind thoughts. JOE.

DEAR TESSIE:
I have no other acquaintances there I feel that it would not be proper to go. Please let me know if I am correct, or am I too strict in my ideas?—Trude.

I quite agree with you that it would be unwise for you to spend a week-end in the neighboring town since you have no friends there whom you can visit. Of course, if you could take your mother or any married woman friend with you as a chaperone, it would be perfectly all right to go. Otherwise, I would insist that the young man do all the visiting in your town. True, he told him that people your friends, would not understand and might misjudge you; he would not want them to do that, I know.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Page in care of the "What Shall I Do?" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

RECIPES FOR A DAY
Apple Fritters—Make pancakes batter of one cup flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt, one tablespoon sugar, one egg, yolk three-quarters cup milk, one tablespoon butter, substitute. Pare and core two apples, cut in one-half inch slices. Dip in batter and fry on hot griddle. Make syrup of one-half cup brown sugar and one-quarter cup water.
Baked Stuffed Potatoes—Try one-quarter pound sausage meat and one-half green pepper, chopped in a skillet. When done mix with the inside of two large potatoes which have been baked until mealy. Season with salt and pepper. Stuff potato skins with the mixture and return to oven for five minutes.
Rice Dish—A new and delicious way for cooking rice.
One cup rice in fried butter, then added to most any kind of gravy, being cooked at least 45 minutes, will change the flavor wonderfully. After trying this once it will never be cooked in any other way.
Communal Mush (Requested)—Two quarts water, one quart cornmeal, one tablespoon salt. Boil until the water is boiling, add the salt, stir in the meal (stiffed) slowly; let it cook (put cover on) for one hour; stir often. About 15 minutes before it is done take off cover. If it should be to thick so you can't stir it, add a little boiling water and let it cook some more. Be sure that all the water is cooked up before done.

WOMEN STILL BARRED FROM STATE OFFICES
[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Madison—Woman suffrage has failed to bring any member of the newly franchised sex an elective state office in Wisconsin. Four women in elective county office are the only ones who have received political favor from the Badger commonwealth.

All of the 133 state legislators are men, as are the four state officers. Women are excluded from legislative employment by statute, which specifies that "male persons only shall be employed."

As a result of this statute they are prevented from sharing in the 92 appointments made by clerks and sergeant-at-arms of the senate and assembly. Stenographers and clerks, selected on a partial civil service basis, must all come from the politically entrenched sex.

But two members of the Wisconsin commissions are women. No commission or department has a woman as its head, and few of the responsible state positions outside of the legislature have been awarded to one of those who have recently been put on political equality with the men who now operate the government.

Governor Blaine is said to have recognized the minor state officers have in Wisconsin government, and to have decided that they should replace men in those state positions for which they are specially adapted. Possibility of more active participation of their part in state affairs. Possibly of a woman to head the Industrial commission has been persistently postponed.

Recent organization of women's political clubs was said to be a forerunner of more active participation on their part in state affairs. The women's vote is everywhere recognized as of deciding importance, and they feel that members of their sex should be favored with political positions.

Stevens Point—Theodore Serkowski is in St. Michael's hospital with his jaw bone broken in two places and with his step-son, John Bosawski, faces an assault and battery charge as the result of a family fight which the police were called to stop. According to Bogawski, the trouble started when he rescued his mother, whom he alleges his stepfather attempted to beat.

Heart and Home Problems

Letters May Be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette.

Is there one of us who is not depressed by the spirit of greed which is spreading over the country? It is a thing which increased in war times and which has not lost its hold since peace terms were agreed upon.

The wave of greed and crime must be stopped. Kindness and integrity can be restored if we each do our part. To be kinder and more courteous to strangers is a good start, and to be scrupulous in everything we do and say. Many people who consider themselves honorable chuckle, or explain, when a street car company out of five cents. Also, when the storekeeper makes a mistake in the change in favor of the customer, the cheater the storekeeper. I do not call such transactions honorable or worthy of good people.

It is really a surprise to enter a business concern and be treated with courtesy. Everyone is too busy to want to bother with the complaint or errand of the visitor.

If kindness and integrity are virtues of the past, let's let's old-fashioned and resist with our whole soul the thoughtlessness and greed of modern times.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl 17 years of age and have never been married, but for seven years I have been keeping company with a man the same age as myself. The man is married, and has two children, but he does not live with his wife, although he still helps to support them. His wife and children are with her mother.

Do you think I am making a mistake or not, as he is trying to get a divorce? DIMPLE
I think you are making a mistake and have done so for seven years. Doubtless the divorce could have been averted if you had earnestly tried to make the man feel his responsibility to his family. A woman should not accept attentions from a married man until he has been granted his divorce. I wonder how you would feel if you were in the place of a mother with two children who had lost her husband to another woman and who finds herself facing the problem of supporting herself and the children at least partially.

Milton Debating Team Will Meet Ripon College

Milton—Milton college, which has adopted intercollegiate debating this winter after a lapse of several years, will meet the Ripon college forensic team in a dual debate the last week in February. "Resolved: That European Immigration Should Be Further Restricted by Law" is the subject to be argued by the collegians.

Arrangements have also been made for a dual debate between the freshmen teams of Milton and Carroll, the Japanese immigration problem. The Milton debaters are being coached by Prof. L. H. Stinger of the department of public speaking.

This Side of Paradise

F. Scott Fitzgerald's Realistic story of American College Life

Read of Amory's Three Loves:
His "Baby" Love
Amory leaned over quickly and kissed Myra's cheek. He had never kissed a girl before and his lips tasted curiously. Then their lips brushed like young wild flowers in the wind.
"We're awfully close," Myra gently. Sudden revulsion seized Amory, disgust, loathing for the whole incident.
"Kiss me again!" Her voice came out of the great void.
"I don't want to," he heard himself saying.
"I don't want to!" he repeated passionately.
Myra sprang up, her cheeks pink with bruised vanity.
"I hate you," she cried. "I'll tell Mamma you kissed me and she won't let me play with you!"

His "Slicker" Love
"Isabelle!" His whisper blended in the music, and they seemed to float nearer together. Her breath came faster.
"Can't I kiss you, Isabelle—Isabelle?" Lips half parted, she turned her head to him in the dark. Suddenly the sound of running footsteps surged toward them. Quick as a flash, Amory reached up and turned on the light, and when the door opened he was turning over the magazines on the table, while she sat without moving, serene and unembarrassed. But her heart was beating wildly, and she felt somehow as if she had been deprived. It was evidently over.

His "College Man" Love
He sat in the big chair and held out his arms so that she could nestle inside them.
His lips moved lazily over her face.
"You taste so good," he sighed, and held her closer.
"Amory," she whispered, "when you're re-ready for me I'll marry you."

Cochrane Rebukes Brady; Declares Contract Still Holds

LONDON PROMOTER OFFERS $500,000 TO HANDLE MATCH

London, Jan. 21.—The original contract for the Dempsey-Carpenter boxing bout is considered still valid by Charles E. Cochrane, the English boxing promoter, in a statement authorized by his office here today. Mr. Cochrane's associate said they had no knowledge of authority for Mr. Brady's New York, to speak in Mr. Cochrane's behalf.

The statement reads:

Admission Rates Small.

"As far as Mr. Cochrane is concerned the original contract for the Dempsey-Carpenter fight holds. If Messrs. Brady or Rickard have withdrawn, that is beyond our control, but it is not Mr. Cochrane's offer of $500,000 to stage the fight in London."

It was stated that Mr. Cochrane had not heard directly from Mr. Brady, who was inclined to believe the ruling of the New York state boxing commission as to a maximum admission fee to the fight might have caused him to "get out from under."

CONTRADICTORY MAX WIND UP IN COURT

New York, Jan. 21.—Instead of being fought, the $500,000 Dempsey-Carpenter bout may become a subject for battle in the courts.

Attorney Harry Sales Hechheimer, authorized under the original contract to act for Dempsey and Carpenter, announced Thursday that a suit for specific performance of the contract probably would be brought against each of the three promoters, William A. Brady, C. B. Cochrane and Tex Rickard, as abandon the half million fracas to its fate. Mr. Hechheimer insisted that the principals have fulfilled their obligations. Mr. Brady, on the other hand, stated he was ready to fight the matter in the courts if this was necessary to protect his interests.

Attorney Hechheimer takes the attitude that there has been no violation of contract, the ground on which Mr. Brady withdrew from the fight for himself and Mr. Cochrane of London, for whom Mr. Brady said he is authorized to act. Tex Rickard, who formed the boxing triumvirate, took issue on the contract, attorney Hechheimer on the contract.

ALL-STARS TRIM BLUES IN RAPID BATTLE, 18-9

Playing like enemies of old, the high school basketball team and the Blues battled at the "Y" last night with the Stars coming out on the top end of an 18 to 9 score. Booked as a practice game to take the place of that cancelled by Monday high it was replete with thrills with each five putting all they had into the fight. Some hopes are held that another clash between the two local quints may be held in the near future.

Hodge Scores Blues.

Shoving Hodge, hailing from Nacokosa, Wis., into the line, the Stars sent fright into the hearts of the Blues. While the new man did not star in shooting, he was able to break up many a high school play. Point guarding was done by "Red" Hager, who with field goals and three free throws made 11 counters. Other players on each team experienced tough luck in seeing their tries at the basket roll away.

Good passing was illustrated by both teams, although the Blues lacked finish and would have been better off with a little more pep. Bick, usually the crack basketer for the students, was held to two. Graft of the Stars kept the ball in Star territory a large part of the time.

At half time the score was 15 to 6. In the last period only three points were scored by each team, the work being back and forth down the court.

Tomorrow the high school travels to Milton Junction where they play Union high. The game promises to be fast with a good sized crowd looking along to root for Janesville. Stars play at Potosi Saturday night. Summary:

LEVIS' INDIANA FIVE TO BATTLE GOPHERS TONIGHT

Coach George Levis, former Wisconsin basketball star and forward of the Janesville Lakota Cardinals, is setting the Big Ten conference alive with his Indiana basketball team. His team now tops the standings.

Tonight Indiana invades northern territory at Minnesota and meets the only first-class outfit on its schedule. With victories over Ohio State and Northwestern Indiana looks good to win from the Gophers. If they lose they will be eliminated from the conference race.

Saturday the Badgers and Illinois meet at Madison. The outcome will be a prediction of what Illinois will do against Minnesota on Monday. Ohio State meets Purdue and Michigan plays Ray Baker's Northwesterns at Evanston on Saturday, while Chicago faces Iowa at Bartlett gym.

FORT CAVALRY TRIMS JEFFERSON, N. G. 28-13

(By Gazette Correspondent.)

Fort Atkinson, Jan. 21.—Troop H of the Fort Atkinson cavalry, defeated Co. A of Jefferson in one of the hottest basketball games ever staged in the armory, by a score of 28-13. The first quarter ended 6-5, half ended 12-7, and the third quarter 18-10, always in favor of the victors. Dornbusch featured with long baskets. Spectators declared this to be a game resembling a football game. Deshimer, after committing a number of fouls, was taken from the game.

Here and There, but Mostly Here

By FRANK SINGLAI, Sporting Editor.

When the Lakota Cardinal basketball team was kicking up the floor in 1913 and 1914 with pretty nearly all-comers of Wisconsin and defeating many strong aggregations of the middle west, comment was general that Rolley Williams, crack guard, was going to be heard from more generally in the athletic world. Combined with his work on the freshman football team at the University of Wisconsin during the 1915 season when his whirling pivot opened many a hole in the varsity line during practice, observers predicted that he would create a name for himself when he got on the regulars.

Since then history has been written and Rolley has lived up to all that was expected. As half back on the Badger eleven this past season, his long end and line-bucking often called for high comment in the scores of the conference battles. The pivot so many people here spoke about opened gaps through which his mates dashed through.

Made All-Conference.

When the time came for selecting the All-Conference eleven, Williams had done so remarkably well for a first year man on the Wisconsin team that he was selected by several experts for one of the half backs on the second team. He has good chances of making the first mythical Big Ten team in 1921.

Right now, Williams is starting to large extent as a forward on the Badger basketball squad. There is not a game in which he plays that his fast dribbling and speedy foot work does not count for at least one basket and more often than not at least three. His keen eye classes his as an accurate passer.

"Pivot" Williams hails from Edgerton. Out in that town he has done much for sportsmanship. Last fall he aided materially in putting on a big athletic carnival under the auspices of the American Legion. He is a clean living youth, neither a smoker or a drinker.

Last fall he had several tempting offers from other colleges but he elected to remain with his home state.

SWIMMER ROSS SETS NEW RECORD

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 21.—Norman Ross of the Illinois A. C. clipped fifth of a second of the 140 yard mile swim record last night in the Minneapolis Athletic club tank. Ross made the distance in 5 minutes 53.3 seconds; the former record, held by himself, was 5 minutes 54.5 seconds.

WARM WEATHER HALTS ILLINOIS SKI MEET

Chicago, Jan. 21.—The Nordic Ski club announced today that mild weather this week has forced postponement of their annual meet planned for Cary, Ill., Sunday, January 23. The meet will be held whenever an adequate snowfall makes it possible.

Entries from many foremost amateur and professional ski jumpers have been received in addition to the entries of a number of women for a special five mile cross country run.

TICKET SCALPING CHARGED AT KENOSHA

Kenosha, Wis., Jan. 21.—Charges of a serious nature have been made against officials of Kenosha and Kenosha county or at least against men who wore the badge of authority at the recent boxing show staged at the Coliseum here and Promoter W. J. Prader has been directed by the Wisconsin state boxing commission not to stage any more shows until an investigation is completed.

In reports sent to the athletic commission it is alleged that many of the ushers and policemen accepted large bribes from the fans and found them seats without the presentation of the requisite pasteboards.

Harvard Suggests Colleges Cut Athletic Expenses

Cambridge.—The annual report of the Harvard athletic committee suggested it might be well for colleges to agree to limit expenditures for outfitting athletic teams.

EUROPE OPPOSES HARDING LEAGUE

England and France Outspoken in Attitude on New Peace Body.

By DAVID LAWRENCE.
Washington, Jan. 21.—Europe's opinion toward a new association of nations, as revealed in the cablegrams of the last 24 hours, has made a profound impression here upon those who believe that the new league will be a mere European power into any international organization proposed by the United States.

What the European correspondents have suddenly begun sending is no accidental discovery of the true state of Europe's feeling, because a diplomat here has shown that a statement he had made to the effect that the league was a mere European power was springing up. But what has happened is the beginning of a series of warnings by Europe to America that the league is a hard and cold alliance which at present is so closely interwoven with the treaty of Versailles and a new association which resembles the league of nations and which commits America to no obligations whatsoever obviously Europe would prefer her alliance.

Fear Resentment of U. S.
The writer finds the expression of such a feeling is the expression of the turn things have taken for the fear is expressed there that resentment against the United States will grow and will hurt American opportunity and will hurt American business in the world. But in the department of state sits the democratic administration where the Wilsonian viewpoint is reflected so that the true value of Europe's significant statements that the present league will not be scrapped for an empty wish of nations must be found elsewhere in Washington.

Wants America's Help.
Discussion with the principal representatives of foreign powers here confirms the cablegrams sent by Lawrence Hills, Paris correspondent of the New York Herald, a newspaper which has from the start opposed the League of Nations, and the symposium of messages sent by Paul Scott Mowrer, Paris correspondent of the Chicago Daily News, who published telegrams from practically every important capital of Europe pointing out that Europe wanted America's help and would co-operate in any new plan for an association of nations but was by no means ready to abandon the present league which is a part of the existing treaty that ended the European war.

Economic Pact Abroad.
All these developments are read here in the light of the news that France and Germany and Great Britain are considering an agreement on the method of paying indemnities so that an economic unit will be created on the continent of Europe and thus diminish the requirements of goods that might otherwise have been bought from the United States.

American officials here are doubtful that France and Germany can agree and they see in the story of an economic understanding between France and Germany with respect to the exchange of ores and coal simply an effort on the part of the French to be independent of British coal. While there is still much sympathy for France, officials constantly point out that the judgment of the French is short sighted and they are simply trying to do more than they should in Europe.

France Has Big Army.
Moreover it is a fact that the maintenance by France of a standing army of 550,000 men is regarded here as an economic waste. The better is expressed that the military crowd in France will continue to keep the question of reparations unsettled so that the army may be kept intact for there would be no excuse for the army unless there were a constant threat to occupy German territory because of non-fulfillment of treaty terms.

Until the indemnity is fixed and France ceases holding a club over all of Europe with her big army, officials here see little opportunity for a stabilization of economic conditions and consequently see little chance for America to get good money for commodities she must sell to Europe to overcome unemployment and unfavorable rates of exchange.

Question Is Economic.
The questions are no longer political but economic and many business men who want to see America's foreign trade that Europe will not feel kindly toward the United States because in this moment of serious disturbance she has stood aloof seeking all the advantages without incurring any of the responsibilities or obligations. Europe never believed this would be forthcoming until the diplomats in Washington began to report their understanding of Mr. Harding's new foreign policy.

Depends on Trade.
The reaction has just started in America can get along without European markets, then the new attitude assumed by the United States is not to be feared. If America wants European trade and an influence in the regulation of world commerce and finance, the warning just sent by the European correspondents will be taken to heart. Disinterested judgment in Washington is that Warren Harding will come closer to the irreconcilable group even dreamt would be the case, and that the selection of Charles Evans Hughes as secretary of state is a step in the direction of a more harmonious relationship with Europe rather than political or economic isolation.

ENGINEER PLANS TO BUILD 4 HOMES IN SECOND WARD

James Tappan, Jr., who worked here during 1920 as an engineer for the Cady-Gallagher company, contemplates the erection of four houses in the second ward this spring. He has secured permits from P. A. Blair, building inspector.

The houses will be built at 725 and 727 Fifth avenue, and 726 and 728 Caroline street. He has purchased 14 lots in this section.
The two on Fifth avenue will be $1,000 structures, 28 by 24 feet, seven rooms. The others will be $2,700, 24 by 24 feet.

Elizabeth Brown, 914 Glen street, has secured a permit for a chicken coop, and John Joerg, 613 Prairie avenue, for a furnace.

LAY PLANS MONDAY FOR MILK CAMPAIGN

Preparation for the county wide "use more milk and milk products" campaign will be made at a conference which has been called for ten o'clock Monday in the office of County Agent R. T. Glasco, in the court house.

J. P. Thomas, secretary of the Wisconsin Dairy council and other state officials will be in attendance. Invitations have been extended to the health nurses and health department officers in Janesville, Beloit and other parts of the county. All school officials have been urged to attend and it is hoped to interest the women's clubs in the campaign as a means of promoting better community health. Speeches are to be given in both the county and city school systems and an essay campaign worked out with prizes to the best papers written on milk and its value as a food. Meetings are also to be held in the township clubs and the Farm Bureau organizations.

RANDALL TO NAME 8 TO U. S. SCHOOLS

Two vacancies and four alternates for the naval college at Annapolis and two alternates for cadets at West Point will be appointed by Congressman Clifford E. Randall from the first congressional district of Wisconsin. An examination under the Wisconsin Civil Service commission will be held Feb. 12, at a place not yet designated. Those who qualify are eligible for nomination for entrance into the schools which are ranked among the foremost colleges of the East. Subjects of the examination are algebra, plane geometry, English grammar and composition, general civics (for midshipman only).

For qualifications for admission one must be between the ages of 17 and 22 years for West Point, except those who have served for one year in the service of the U. S. or allied armies when men up to 24 years of age will be admitted during 1921. Midshipman must be 1 to 20 years old.

PLAN 2 MORE UNITS OF PARENT-TEACHERS

Parent-teachers' associations have proved so successful in Janesville since their organization last spring that two more are being planned according to an announcement of Superintendent D. H. Hottel. The associations which will soon be organized the Webster and Garfield which will form one and the Lincoln and Douglas, another. These associations which were organized last year and which have had many enthusiastic and well attended meetings are the Adams, Jefferson and Washington-Ontario. The Jackson association was organized the latter part of last year.
